Founder, 4Generations Institute

Program Director, National Association of Youth Courts

Brief Biographical Sketch

After a 25-year tenure as president of Voices for Florida's Children, a statewide advocacy network, Jack founded 4Generations Institute to promote intergenerational policies and programs that benefit the young, their parents, and more experienced family members.....also known as grandparents.

Jack serves as Program Director for the National Association of Youth Courts, specializing in communications strategies, public policy initiatives, and creative resource development for this national network of youth development programs. Jack holds a Master's degree in Child Development and Family Studies from Purdue University and an undergraduate degree in English Literature from Hunter College.

Jack was a founding member of Voices for America's Children. A graduate of Leadership Florida, Jack was the recipient of that organization's first Distinguished Alumnus Award. He was named Floridian of the Year by the Orlando Sentinel. He serves on several advisory boards, including the University of Florida's College of Law Center for Children and Families, and is an instructor in Political Science at Florida State University.

Jack and his wife, Charlotte, live in Tallahassee and have two sons, Josh and Aaron, both graduates of the Florida State University and currently working as educators in Washington, D.C. and Tallahassee.
